

What's Up With The Flags!

To better serve you, take advantage of our flags located on the end of your table

What are these parking meters all about and why are they here??? They are the actual meters that once lined the streets of Ocean City and now they collect quarters for an exceptional cause...to raise, with your help, as much as possible for a heart warming organization called Believe in Tomorrow/Children's House By The Sea. Each week, six families who have mountains to climb in their lives, are given the opportunity to get away and enjoy a peaceful space in time at the beach. Beautiful activities are planned for them----from cookouts, to an evening on the boardwalk and dinner at Hooper's. Keep your meter full while you dine for the opportunity to win an array of exciting prizes. If our prize wheel lands on your table number, and your time hasn't expired, you can instantly win anything from t-shirts, appetizers, drinks, desserts and more!

How They Got Their Name – A Little Ocean City History

- Angler Ale – 4.0% ABV 20 IBU's – An Angler is the proper term for a fisherman. Ocean City has thrived off the commercial and recreational fishing industry since "The Storm of 1933" when a hurricane broke through the sand bar which connected Ocean City and Assateague. This opened up what is now the inlet and the Sport of Fishing found its way to Ocean City, MD.
- Jackspot Amber Ale – 5.8% ABV 30 IBU's - The "Jackspot" is a famous fishing hole named after Captain Jack Townsend in the 1930's. It lies 23 miles off of the shore line of Ocean City and is where White Marlin were quite plentiful from the 1930's thru the 1960's.
- White Marlin Pale Ale – 5.6% ABV 50 IBU's - On July 29th, 1939 there were 171 White Marlin boated at the Jackspot. It was the largest single day's catch ever recorded anywhere in the world at that time, cementing Ocean City as the White Marlin Capital of the World.
- Poor Man's IPA – 6.6% ABV 77IBU's - A West Coast Style IPA named after the Poor Man's Canyon, the closest canyon from Ocean City to reach 100 fathoms deep where the big fish are.
- Black Fin Black IPA – 6.0% ABV 56 IBU's - A Blackfin Tuna has a dark body and is rich in flavor. The Blackfin Tuna is the smallest species of the Thunnus genus and are only found in warmer water of the Western Atlantic Ocean.
- Sneaky Wheat – 5.0% ABV 22 IBU's - Our Wheat beer is more of a traditional American Wheat, less on the sweet and more on the wheat. Its flavor really Sneaks up on you.
